“ Jimmy was a loving caring brother who loved you unconditionally. His zest for life, going on cruises and Mickey Mouse was the way he lived. He was a great brother and Uncle. Even though we lived many miles apart, we never missed talking to each other, catching up on our adventures or reminiscing of our family and childhood. I will always cherish the special bond we shared and those weekly sometimes intense conversations we had. Jim and I had some very serious conversations the last week before he passed away about family, the loss of my husband, Marty and what I needd to do to cement my future happiness. My heart is broken for the losses and loves our family has endured, but will remember our last conversation and am following your advice! Until we meet again watch over us and know how much I love you and miss you big brother!
Love, Ann
