

Artem Kokuev

December 8, 1991 - October 17, 2022

Art was a brave, kind, and hard-working man that always sacrificed his time and skills to help others have a better life. This mild-mannered protector, born and raised in Russia, moved to the United States at a young age and was always loved by those around him wherever he ventured. He worked tirelessly to become a Marine and Man that people could respect and rely on unquestioningly. His tender demeanor and respectful nature were steadfast in his support of his family and their happiness.

Art was loved by everyone and will always be remembered as the Gentle Giant with a helping hand forever outstretched. He is survived by his mother, Marina, and his twin siblings Ian and Anastasia.

Tribute Wall

RV

“Artem was a man of honesty and integrity. He wore many hats – an amazing cook, pet dad, a dedicated worker, a thoughtful son, brother, friend and many more. Because of his sense of humor and spontaneous nature, almost everything we did felt like a daring adventure. I will never forget our snack runs, road trips, hikes and movie nights. Artem never failed to make me feel protected; at the same time, he had a sweet side that radiated kindness and selflessness. He shared his love for nature, food and fitness. I will always cherish the things he taught me, from cooking tips to important life lessons. I will forever be grateful for the time I got to spend with him. Lastly, I will celebrate life for both of us.”

Ruzanna Vartikyan - October 23, 2022 at 11:21 PM

 Alex Pelletier

“He was always someone who could make light of a situation. We were deep in water trying to launch jets in Japan during Typhoon season and he always had a smile. I'm an NCO, I'm supposed to be beyond reproach, but 'Cookie' always had the better attitude. He's a testament to the Corps, and further a testament to his character. He was a brother, and I love him as such. He will be deeply missed.”

Alex Pelletier - October 23, 2022 at 01:56 AM