“ My nickname for Carolyn has always been “my sunshine” because anyone who knows her knows that’s exactly the kind of person she was. She was pure happiness and positivity. No matter what kind of mood I was in or what was happening, one talk with Carolyn could completely change my day. We worked in the same department for a while and our friendship grew into something incredible. We’d constantly send memes or gifs, just to make the other smile. When I got my new position, she and I either called or texted every day, as we called it “our daily Carolyn check-in” and we always made a point to visit each other once or twice a week, just for a smile and a hug. When I started my new job, she got me this light up plaque that says “to my bestie” with beautiful words and wrote me this touching card. I will cherish her words and memories for as long as I live. While this heartbreak and pain is overwhelming, it has also reminded me how lucky I am to have had someone I love so very much and consider a true friend in my life. I can’t even imagine what her family is going through. She always spoke of them with such love and admiration. They are constantly in my thoughts and my prayers. There won’t be a day I don’t miss you, my sunshine. Rest easy, my sweet friend. I’ll cheer extra loud for our Giants for you and remember, you’re my favorite Carolyn always.

“ Carolyn was such a kind soul and would instantly light up a room with her presence. I enjoyed the little conversations we shared during her mail runs and will miss her deeply. I pray for healing and comfort during this difficult time to her friends and family.

“ Working with Carolyn was a highlight of my days. She brought so much laughter and joy into my work life. I used to tease her about being my “vertically challenged” friend, and she’d laugh, saying she had T-Rex arms. Her Kia Sportage was never just a Sportage; we always called it her “Kia Shortage.” She was so nervous about driving the golf cart at work that I’d gladly trade mail runs with her to spare her the stress. We shared countless funny TikTok’s every day, and that’s just a small glimpse of the many moments we shared. Carolyn was more than a coworker; she was a true friend. Someone I could rely on. Someone who could brighten the day simply by being there. I’m going to miss her more than words can express. My thoughts and prayers are with her family and friends during this incredibly difficult time. Rest in peace, my dear friend.
