“ Dave was a great Bible teacher. I regularly asked for his notes because they were so rich.

He went on several trips with a group of us to China. He never liked the food, but he loved the people. He was always ready to share the hope he had in Jesus. Always ready to mentor young men in the faith. Always ready to go wherever he was needed.

I miss him already, but I look forward to the reunion someday in heaven -- with Dave and all those who will be there because of his faithful witness.

“ Bro. Dave endured many trips to China with me and other team members. He was our logistics man. He could find anything the team needed whether it was water or crackers or ice cream. I will miss my faithful brother and fellow traveler. He has taken another journey to be with His Savior and Lord. The same Savior and Lord that he taught about, prayed to, and shared with many on both sides of the earth. Even as his health began to decline he still would make the long journey to visit his friends in China and witness for Jesus. See you soon my brother.
