“ The tide recedes but leaves behind bright seashells on the sand. The sun goes down, but gentle warmth still lingers on the land. The music stops, and yet it echoes on in sweet refrains.. For every joy that passes, something beautiful remains. . Anonymous

“ Thank you for introducing me to music and how, not only the lyrics, but each instrument can impact the feeling of the song. Thank you for being my buddy growing up. You were a man who couldn't tell a lie, even when you SHOULD have. You FELT and believed everything you said, and you were hard to debate with because of that. You always told me "I am your Dad", you never once made me feel like you weren't. I've always loved you for that. All we wanted was for you to find peace and you did. I can't believe you are really gone. I'll love and miss you...until we meet again...
