

Dean Joel Black

May 13, 1968 - March 6, 2026

Born and raised in Hagerstown, Maryland, Dean graduated from South Hagerstown High School before beginning a career with CSX. His lifelong fascination with railroads became both his work and one of his greatest joys.

Dean's life took a beautiful turn when he met Maggie Black online. He moved from Hagerstown to Florida to be with her. Together, they built a wonderful life filled with laughter, partnership, and a love that was both gentle and fierce. Dean was the proud father of Meagan, who brought him immeasurable joy and pride.

A man of sharp intellect and a generous spirit, Dean was fiercely loyal to the people he loved, and his humor was warm, his kindness instinctive, and his presence a steady source of comfort.

Dean was preceded in death by his parents, Betty and Richard Black; his sister, Constance Bradley; and his brother, Richard Black. He is survived by his wife Maggie, his daughter Meagan, and extended family who will carry his memory forward with tenderness and gratitude.

In honor of Dean's life and in support of families affected by frontotemporal dementia, memorial contributions may be made to The Association for Frontotemporal Degeneration (AFTD) or the FTD Disorders Registry.
