Devon Ewing McComb

November 5, 1976 - February 17, 2017

Devon Ewing McComb passed from this life Friday, February 17th, in Jacksonville, Florida – another casualty of the opioid crisis that rages throughout our country. Beloved son of Deborah Anne Brosche of Staatsburg, New York, and Christen Ranung McComb of St. Augustine, Florida, Devon was a gentle soul and inspired musician who was denied happiness and the full, productive, and peace-filled life that would have been his earthly due had he not been laid low by a decades-long battle with substance abuse. He was a good man who gave yet was given too little joy in this life. Devon joins his younger brother Ashton Charles McComb, who succumbed to the same insidious affliction five years ago. He is also survived by his brothers, Shura Ranung McComb of Brooklyn, New York, and Eamon Kemper McComb of St. Augustine, Florida; by his loving step-mother Victoria Jackson, also of St. Augustine; by a multitude of friends in New York, Florida, and throughout the country; and by his beloved cat Oscar who now resides with Chris and Victoria in feline bliss under the shady bushes of their residence in St. Augustine South. A celebration of Devon's life will be held in St. Augustine on Sunday, February 26th. Contact 904/806-6369 or .

“ Devon I love you my brother. I am glad that we got to grow up together and got to go to school together at D.A. You will be missed. I love you so much my heart is broken. You never let know one hurt me or mess with me when we were growing up because of my sexuality. You did not care that I was gay. You loved me for who I was and am. I am so sad to see another friend loose this battle on earth with addiction. The devil is a liar and God is the light. You walked in the light and your presents showed that you walked in the light. May God give you and your family comfort during this time of need. Devon I want you to know i am always here for you. Please come and show me a sign of peace. Love, Chester Forever

“ Devon, It has been devastating to learn of your passing - like breathlessness. It was a gift to have known you in high school at DA, to have been an artist in the same world as your artistry, and to have watched you be a beautiful human being in the world. We will miss you. April
