

Dylan Joseph Osborne

August 24, 2007 - September 16, 2024

Dylan Joseph Osborne, born on August 24, 2007, in Enid, OK, passed away on September 16, 2024, in Palm Coast, FL. He was a beloved son, brother, and friend, known for his goofy sense of humor and compassionate nature. Dylan was a senior in high school and had recently taken on his first job as a dishwasher. He cherished his family and friends, holding a special place in his heart for his siblings. His nickname, "Pickle," as only the closest to him knew. A lover of video games, thrifting, and the quest for the perfect candle scent, Dylan found joy in the little things. He adored cheeses, cheesecakes, and snacks like Takis and Chester's puffs. He often expressed his fondness for Arizona tea, appreciating that it remained 99 cents throughout his life.

Dylan's passion for gardening and flowers showcased his gentle side, while his favorite saying, "It's okay," embodied his reassuring presence to those around him. He was proud to be on the verge of graduating high school, an accomplishment that highlighted his determination.

He is survived by his parents, Joseph Osborne and Nichole Rodriguez, along with his bonus mother, Tamra Osborne. He leaves behind his siblings, Alyssa, Mason, Dominic, and Olivia, as well as his bonus brother, Wyatt, and his cherished nephew, Silas. Dylan is also survived by his loving grandparents, Sandra and Miguel Rodriguez.

Dylan's impact on the lives of those around him will be remembered through his kindness and the love he shared with everyone he met. He will be deeply missed but always remembered for the joy he brought into the world.

A memorial service will be held at 12 noon on Saturday, September 21, 2024 at St. Johns Family Funeral Home.

Ah Dylan, sweet angel. What a wonderful boy he was. I rmb when I first ever met him; four years ago. He had a silly insta called Dio Brando when he was obsessed with JoJos- that's where I friendship blossomed. He sat beside me in my 8th grade history class, he was truly wonderful. He slowly turned into my best friend and stuck beside me through everything, we even pulled an all nighter together because I was scared of some silly frogs. I grew so found of him; I loved him. He understood me and I like to think I understood him too. He was everything; he was the life of the party, love, kindness, compassion, pure bliss. A perfect soul. Such a perfect soul that Jesus wanted to see him so badly again.

I'm so incredibly sorry for your loss, no one should go through this pain, but please remember that heaven is filled with no sadness, no anger, no regret nor hatred, but with love, prosperity, hospitality, happiness, bliss. For the Lord has taken him to the kingdom of heaven where nothing can hurt him. Your love and this love that's given to him now is like a thousand roses blossoming in front of you in a second—he feels this love and I'm sure he is giving it right back. I'm unable to express how heartbroken and sorry I am for your loss, please know the Lord is with him, and may he be with you too. Sending so much love and my condolences your way.

Oh Dylan... He was like a brother to me... He was so kind and wonderful towards everyone when I met him in middle school. I was heart broken realizing I had to move away from him during summer after 8th grade. He was always there for me... Blessed his soul... I hope the best for his family... I miss you brother. - Emma Scott

“ september 2nd, after work dylan called me like 3 times and I didn't see, I finally pick up and he goes "do you wanna hang out in your driveway for like 15 minutes" i make a joke about it and he goes "not gonna lie I just wanted a hug"

I walk outside and he's leaning up on my garage. we talk for a little I let him drink out of my water bottle. a cat walks by and we both start trying to call it over going "pspspspsps". we both get to pet it a little and he stands up and goes "jay... can I get a hug" and I genuinely had never ever been hugged that well like I felt so comfortable with him I didn't wanna let go.

i miss him saying my name all quiet because he was nervous about asking.

the last time we really hung out he got me mozzarella sticks from work because i was complaining all day about being hungry. i miss watching videos with him and listening to 12 rods or ja66 or underscores or "something that's good background noise". i'll never forget the time we spent together.

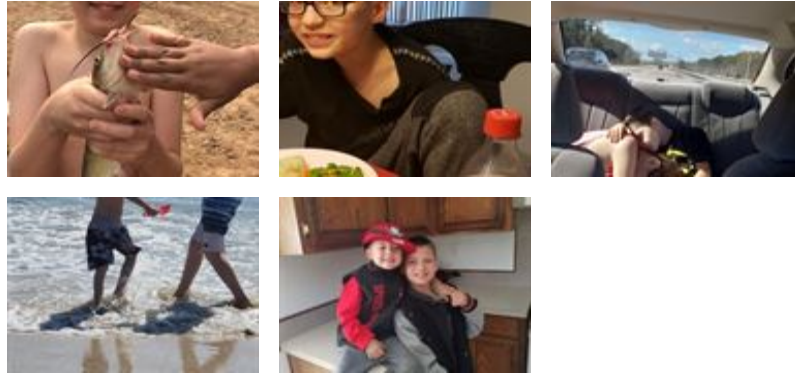

see you in the next life. love you man
