“ Here I am 3 months later writing my tribute. I honestly had it written the day before your funeral. You see I have put a letter in every grandparents coffin to take to your resting place. I left mine on the counter that day. I beat myself up that you are the only one without a letter from me. But I will write it here.....Grandma, Thank you for the many years of always having your door open. Some of my favorite memories are coming to your house before school. 630 am and you would already have my buttered toast and hot chocolate ready. Tiny toons on the tv. I remember when you would pick me up from school and would have the leftover pizza along with the frozen chocolate milk. It would be our afternoon snack. I remember your sweet tea was the BEST EVER along with your biscuits, fried chicken, red beans, mac n cheese, scallop potatoes and giblet gravy. Phew no wonder we all got back lol. My favorite days were Wednesdays also known as Jerrys in Palatka days. And every day after school I would fall asleep in your bed watching power rangers. As I got older the time from 7-8 pm got important. It was our wheel of fortune and Jeopardy showdown. My favorite is when we watched it while eating your famous fish and cheese grits. Obviously this girl loved your cooking. Jeopardy would end at 8 and that would give me just enough daylight to walk home (barefoot of course). Years went by, I got older and life got busy. I regret not being there for alot of things. When Granddaddy passed I promised myself I would show up for Easter, 4th of July and I did. And I'm so thankful for that. I'm even more thankful that I got to spend time with you the last week you were with us. You looked so great and your spirits were high. It reminded me just how strong you are. I kissed your forehead and you told me " I better bring those girls of mine next time" . I promised and a few days later I did just that. When we left Isla (my softy) got a little emotional and Lexi said you were beautiful. I didnt know that was the last time I would see you but you must of known because you repeatedly told me " I love you". I will carry that with me always. Thank you for 35 years of loving me unconditionally. Tell everyone I love them. I sleep better knowing you are reunited with granddaddy. I know he must be so happy. Please visit me in my dreams sometime. And remember to meet me for wheel of fortune at 7.
