“ JITANA always had a smile and something positive to say—often wrapping her bright sense of humor in with her witty comments. She was kind and gentle while being one of the strongest people we ever met!

JITANA was the finest of neighbors and a true, sincere friend. She will always be missed by us and thought of with great love and affection.

“ For her grandchildren:
Once upon a time, when we were young, we were scaring each other at a girls' slumber party. When it was Jitana's turn, she said, "This is what I do: when it's a little dark, I make a fist in front of my face, and then slowly open it so that the fingers become claws. Then I aim it at my face and slowly move it toward myself. And it scares me. Than I open my fingers and tell myself it's nothing to fear.
And that is how she taught herself not to be afraid.
