Whether I remain or not, whether this world remains or not, it is enough that you remember me. If some day, in some form, I return to your thoughts - as a flower bud, or as a lingering fragrance let that memory be gentle. Even if I am no longer beside you, even if time carries everything away, May my love stay with you. Quiet, Unseen yet unmistakably present. For true love does not need closeness to exist, it lives on as remembrance, as feeling, as something you cannot see- but can never forget.

“ I’m so deeply sorry for your loss. Oj was truly a wonderful man. I will always cherish the many conversations we shared, especially those quiet moments talking by the pool in Fort Lauderdale. He had a warmth and presence that stayed with you long after the conversation ended. Please know I’m holding you and your family close in my thoughts during this difficult time. Christina Wilson

“ I was lying on my hospital bed when I got the news that my big brother-in-law OJARAN NARACE passed away. Although I knew he was sick and was expecting the news anytime, when I got the message, it just hit me, I will not see this person again. This person who has been a part of our family since I was 15 years old. This person who was a big brother to me and a father figure to my children. This person who always stood up for me when I was abused. You were a kind and loving husband to my sister INDRA for 60 years. One of the best father and grand father in the world. A man of integrity and honesty, who always stood up for the truth. OJ you were loved by each and every member of the Maharaj family. Most of the times when visiting your home in Trinidad or in St Augustine, it was always the feeling that I am going to see my brother and not my brother-in-law. The last few times I visited you in St. Augustine and Indra will ask you, “DO YOU KNOW WHO IS VISITING?” You would say “OF COURSE, IT’S NORMATEE”. My dear brother in law, SLEEP. Very soon we will meet again, when Jehovah wakes you up from that deep sleep. Revelation 21 vs 4- AND HE (GOD) WILL WIPE OUT EVERY TEAR FROM THEIR EYES AND DEATH WILL BE NO MORE.

“ Uncle Ojaran the Parang King.

My earliest memory of you my lovely Uncle; when you taught me to how to dance the Parang.

At an early age of two you held my little hands, being gently lifted safely & securely to place my tiny feet upon your feet which seemed like giants feet. Hearing “just follow me”, yet me looking down at yours to keep mine in place so I didn’t fall off, yet you saying “look up at me & not at your feet so you can learn to dance to the rhythm of the Parang.”

& as we danced, you had a beautiful way of always making me feel so assured, can still see that look today, more so, even now. For in that moment so precious to me, looking up at you, to see, your caring, reassuring face with your smile which was always you.

& as we danced, sometimes my feet slipped off, one thing was always true, being caught by your hands, & hearing you say, “It’s okay I’ve got you.” “I won’t allow you to fall.” & I never did.

As the years rolled on & we came to share your birthday, the one dance I always looked forward to was the Parang because of you. & as you guided me upon the floor, it became so much more than just a dance, later on in life, it was a lesson of taking a chance. Stepping into life with love, laughter & joy, something only you knew how to deliver.

So thank you, darling Uncle Ojaran for all the love, laughter, of teaching me Parang, for when I hear that music, will always know you’re here & always hold you dear.

Our Uncle Ojaran, a great stature of a man & always will be to me, the friendliest giant, who always felt so safe & secure with always.

A second Dad to many of us am certain, with your kind, loving, reassuring smile upon your face. encouraging, to never to give up, have confidence, believe, & always do the right thing, & even though I never saw you often the last years, you never knew how much you were still in my heart, dancing the Parang will bring me tear of love & laughter always, just because of you.

Love you & respect you so much my eldest Uncle Ojaran, & Thank You once again, an amazing man. & remember to save a dance for when we meet again.

“ My beloved brother in law OJ was a man of strength, integrity, and quiet kindness. A respected member of the Trinidad Police Force, he was known for being strict yet fair, and when he spoke, people listened—out of deep respect.

As the years passed, he became more mellow and easy to talk to, revealing a warmth and wisdom that made conversations with him truly special. I have known him all my life, and he always carried himself with a debonair style and a sophisticated flair that set him apart.

He was loved by many and will be deeply missed, always remembered, and forever honored.

RIP

Love always
