“ We were just supposed to date a few times and keep each other company because we always had fun when we were together. Despite the stereotypes society practiced in the mid 80's, we eventually realized our love for each other, for life and for family was way stronger than public opinion. She was the love of my life, my best friend, my soulmate, and the women who stood by me and allowed me to reach my full potential
On God's watch. Forever grateful to say you were my wife for 36 years and someone I cherished and was madly in love with for over 38 years. Thank you Punkin, until we meet again, save me a seat!!
