Richard had a passion for the outdoors whether it be fishing, hunting, or cooking on the grill. He loved spending Saturday's watching Florida Gator

Football and Nascar on Saturday's and Sunday's. Richard had the biggest heart you could imagine as he was a protector of his loved ones and loved his children, grandchildren and family dearly. Even if it wasn't his child he would treat you as if you were family, especially Lanaila McKenzie.

Richard was a believer in Christ our Savior and would give you the shirt off his back or his last piece of bread. He worked for Asplundh for many years before starting his own tree business after the birth of his first child.

Richard will be truly missed by many with his jokes and singing along to old country music songs but he will never be forgotten. He wasn't a myth but a true soldier and legend. He was famous in a small town and his smile and laugh will never be forgotten.

“ I was saddened to hear this. I first met Richard in the sixth grade. We got in a pencil fight as a joke but I ended up with the pencil led in my left hand for forever! It's still there! Even then he was always making us laugh. I'm sure he's left a big empty space in many people's hearts.
