“ I know it's been awhile, can't believe you've been gone 10 months today! 😞
I got a kitty, I know you weren't really a cat person but I know you'd love I have someone to love and cuddle. She'll keep me busy with training too! Lol.
I miss you so much but I'm happy that you don't have to see what's happening in the world today, you'd not be happy! The kids and grands and all our family have been amazing and supportive to me and I know you'd be proud and happy about that!
I think of you so much and so many thoughts make me smile! Thank you for leaving me with that! Until we're together again know you're with me always! ❤️ “ Just don't know where to start, Uncle Bill has been with me throughout my life, always supporting and loving. I remember all the great times, My dad and him were best of friends, always watching the Bruins and sharing pizza and beverages at the "Wallbrook" He loved all sports and he always loved spending time with his many nieces and newphews. I was one lucky girl, when I was given the chance to travel to Europe with him. One night in Switzerland, he caught me being entertained with a Swedish fellar, that didn't go over very well. Later on in life with many other memorable trips he continued to entertain and shower us all with his love. My Cindy, would always welcome my mom and I down, to share many wonderful times, That is when I was introduced to yet another extended family. Cindy and Bill created a life of love laughter and celebrations. You will forever be remembered and loved, thank you for all the memories.

“ Well, we ended the year with great expectations for the new year! You were with us all the way! You'll always be with us! Just who you are and how much we love you! You'd be proud of the family and the great memories we are making to move forward as I know you'd want us to do.

As I started the new 2021 calendar from the old one I realized how many doctors you saw and how much you went through and it made me feel good that you won't have to ever deal with all that again as I know in my heart you're healthy and whole and in a much better place! I miss you with all my heart and think of you in a positive and happy way as I know you're year will be amazing and you'll continue to shower your love and best wishes with all of us! Youre forever loved, deeply missed and always with us! Happy New year!

“ Rest in Peace Dad! One of the first memories I have of dad is my mother telling me how he helped her to be able to move to a better apartment where there was a swimming pool cause he knew I loved to swim. I know we have not always seen eye to eye and have had our issues over the years, but the bottom line is I love you and you are the only father I have ever known. Thank you for accepting a fatherless child in to your home and as one of your own. Even went as far to give me your family name. Not only did he provide a young man with a strong male role mode, I also inherited the remarkable and loving Tivey family whom has also been extremely accepting and a truly amazing clan that I am proud to be a part of. His closest friends James P Sullivan and Rusty Bell, both successful and of strong character, also had a huge influence on the man I am today. They are all a testament to the man Dad is and the incredible life he has had and the influence he has had on my life and others. It's comforting to know that dad will be with Nana, Aunt Barbara, Uncle Bobby, Jim and Rusty again. Can only imagine what a party that will be.

I take peace in knowing you're in a good place with many that loved you, I can always smile because of a thought of you! Thank you for giving me a happy and interesting life with many adventures! ❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️❤️

“ He was "The Godfather"! I have so many happy memories spent with my Uncle Billy and all of you. I remember the Mother's Day Banquets where he would buy me as many Shirley Temples as I could handle and we would dance the day away. It was there that I was introduced to the magic of The Village People. We spent many holidays, vacations and so much time together. And what I remember most about all of those moments is how much fun we all had and how much laughter we all shared. His quick wit and one liners were legendary. I will always be able to remember his giggle. My Uncle Billy was the kind of guy who showed up. I remember calling to let him know that my mum's time here was running out. I remember feeling so overwhelmed and devastated and I also remember how comforting it felt to see him walking through the door of that hospital room. My mum and Uncle Billy were so close. In a way losing him was also like losing another part of her. I wouldn't be surprised if she met him at those gates with toilet paper stuck to her foot.

Thoughts of him will always make me smile!

“ So, this is somewhere between “acceptable” and “crazy.” When Dawnmarie and I were first together (probably 4-5 months), I earned tickets (courtside) to the Magic vs. Celtics game. That night, we were intoxicated on Sambucca. I also was promoted in my career that night, despite said condition. We were supposed that meet Dawn and Cindy at Friday’s after the game, but while (probably shouldn’t have been) driving, he told me “if we show up at Friday’s, they own our ass, we’re going to Cheer’s.” And we did. And our ladies met us there at Cheer’s, despite it being a “bad” move. And despite what you might you all may think, we did all live happily ever after. I miss you Bill, you helped me find myself.

Haha. That was a night! We were still so new and he was crazy always. 😊🤔🤔 he was an adventure 😊

“ While growing up, many of my most cherished memories were shared with the Tiveys. One night, we were all out to dinner and Bill turned to me and said, oh gawd, would you look at that beautiful woman. She’s the lady in red and that song was playing in the background. Even at my tender age, I could see how much he adored and loved Cindy and knew what they had was very special. It was beautiful to see. Uncle Bill as I liked to call him, was always there for me, even when I was 9 months pregnant on bed rest, when my dad passed away 15 days before my son was born. He dropped everything and flew to Colorado to be by my side. I will never forget that as long as I live. He wasn’t just there during the fun times, he was there during the hard times too. Many years ago when my dad had peripheral artery surgery on his legs, his calf did not heal and Bill flew out to NH to hang out with his buddy Jim and help him. It wasn’t pretty but Bill had a way of making things feel ok. And that laugh of his...I can still hear it and I miss it. Till we meet again Uncle Bill 💕💕

“ My favorite quote by Bill; "I'm a busy Bastard." He made this quote when we were in D.C. everyone went to bed for the night and Bill stayed up to finish his glass of wine. A little while later Sandy and I heard him say. "I have two cigarettes lit." " I'm a busy bastard!" I will miss you Wild Bill. Rest easy Buddy.
